Sir/ Madam,

The state Kerala faced its worst floods in the last hundred years during the monsoons in 2018& 2019. The two consecutive floods have exposed the state's vulnerability to disasters and it is high time people made aware of the consequences of the present approaches to life and nature. For a better tomorrow, academicians and the public have to work together and combat environmental illiteracy. The Directorate of Environment and Climate Change, Govt of Kerala promotes creation of environmental awareness among all groups of the society through various programmes under the scheme 'Environmental Awareness and Incentives'.

We are extremely glad to invite professionals , scientist, academicians, research scholars, students and the public to the three-day national seminar on 'Flood Management and Biodiversity Conservation' jointly organized by the NSS unit & Dept of Management Studies, Malabar College of Advanced Studies, Vengara. The seminar is scheduled to be conducted on 27,28&29 January 2020 at the college in collaboration with the Kerala State Higher Education Council and sponsored by the Directorate of Environment and Climate Change, Govt of Kerala.

Thanking you
